

is on target

A CURRY house owner is well on the way to achieving an ambitious fund-raising target.

Earlier this year, restaurateur Syed Rahman announced his intention to raise £100,000 at his two restaurants by 2018. He has already reached the £10,000 mark.

Syed aims to hold weekly fund-raising nights at his restaurants – Cuisine of India, in Wigston, and Chef and Spice, in Leicester's West End.

A proportion of the cash paid by diners goes to a good cause chosen by the organiser of the event.

In the past five years, Syed has helped raise tens of thousands of pounds for various good causes including Loros hospice, the Menphyls centre for disabled children, the Motor Neurone Disease Association, The Meningitis Trust and MS charities.

To organise your own charity night, call the Wigston restaurant on 0116 281 1926 or the Chef and Spice restaurant, in Hinckley Road, Leicester, on 0116 242 2240.
